Henry Smart 1778–1823

Henry began his musical education at an early age, studying the violin with William Cramer. He made such progress that he was playing at the Opera, The Concert of Ancient Music, and at the Academy of Ancient Music when only fourteen years old. He was leader of the Drury Lane Theatre from 1812 to 1821. He was also a member of the Philharmonic Society's Orchestra which he occasionally led. His brother Sir George Smart was also a violinist. Both of them would have heard many of Haydn's latest compositions at Salomon's Concerts.

Sonata for the harp by Henry Smart

Henry Smart wrote this splendid Sonata for his friend the harpist Philippe James Meyer Junior. It is very much in the style of Haydn and Arne and would have been written around 1800.

The violin part is of secondary importance and can be omitted.
